Plan your journey in advance using the traveline www.westberks.gov.uk/transport
For information about buses and public transport within Thatcham and West Berkshire, please visit
Buses
www.westberks.gov.uk/HER
West Berkshire please visit
For more information about the historic environment within Thatcham and the rest of Berkshire can be found online at www.westberksramblers.org.uk Berkshire can be found online at www.gadgets4hurst.co.uk

The local Visitor Information Centre can provide you with details and information about the local area and across West Berkshire, including where to stay.

Visitor Information Centre

The Ramblers is Britain's biggest walking charity. Its goal is to protect the ability of people to enjoy the freedom and benefits of being outdoors on foot. The West Berkshire branch also coincides with Ermin Street, a Roman road from Silchester to Cirencester, and Thatcham is the site of West Berkshire's only known Roman town, first excavated in the 1920s and 30s.

The river Kennet was made navigable from Reading to Newbury in 1723, and further developed as the Kennet & Avon Canal to Bath in 1810. There are walking and cycling routes against invasion. The river Kennet was made navigable from Reading to Newbury in 1723, and further developed as the Kennet & Avon Canal to Bath in 1810. There are walking and cycling routes along the Kennet Valley, with the lakes, damp woodlands and canal forming a narrow corridor. There can be seen the area was made navigable for narrow boats, and under this plan, the river Kennet was made navigable for narrow boats, and under this plan, it was planned to bend the river around the town. The river Kennet was made navigable from Reading to Newbury in 1723, and further developed as the Kennet & Avon Canal to Bath in 1810. There are walking and cycling routes along the Kennet Valley, with the lakes, damp woodlands and canal forming a narrow corridor. There can be seen the area was made navigable for narrow boats, and under this plan, it was planned to bend the river around the town.

Thatcham Park

The Ramblers is Britain's biggest walking charity. Its goal is to protect the ability of people to enjoy the freedom and benefits of being outdoors on foot. The West Berkshire branch also coincides with Ermin Street, a Roman road from Silchester to Cirencester, and Thatcham is the site of West Berkshire's only known Roman town, first excavated in the 1920s and 30s.

The river Kennet was made navigable from Reading to Newbury in 1723, and further developed as the Kennet & Avon Canal to Bath in 1810. There are walking and cycling routes along the Kennet Valley, with the lakes, damp woodlands and canal forming a narrow corridor. There can be seen the area was made navigable for narrow boats, and under this plan, it was planned to bend the river around the town. The river Kennet was made navigable from Reading to Newbury in 1723, and further developed as the Kennet & Avon Canal to Bath in 1810. There are walking and cycling routes along the Kennet Valley, with the lakes, damp woodlands and canal forming a narrow corridor. There can be seen the area was made navigable for narrow boats, and under this plan, it was planned to bend the river around the town.

Thatcham Town Council

To report any issues regarding the maintenance of paths, roads, street lighting and other street furniture, litter and overgrown vegetation, please contact the Council's Streetcare Team on 01635 519080 or by emailing customerservices@westberks.gov.uk.

Disclaimer

Care should be taken on all routes. The Highway Code and the usual rules of road safety should be observed.

Extreme caution is advised when near water and railway lines, especially with young children.

Whilst we try to ensure the accuracy of all routes, we do not accept liability for any use made of them by you. The routes are intended as a guide only, neither the Council nor any officer or agent of the Council will be legally responsible for any inaccuracies.

Routes and paths shown on the map are not necessarily rights of way. Some routes may only be open during business hours of the premises they serve.
Walking in Thatcham

Paths generally suitable for all users
Less accessible paths – possibly muddy, uneven, or with obstacles
Accessibility
Controlled crossing
Public Toilet
GP Surgery
Chemist
Cashpoint
Post Office
Play area
Walk4Life routes
Bus stops served by local bus routes